Festive fun and holiday magic for Quantum House families

SPECIAL TO FLORIDA WEEKLY

The holidays are about to sparkle a little brighter.

Quantum House will welcome the season with its beloved Sugar Plum Dreams celebration, chaired by Lauren Stoops, on Sunday, December 7, at The Club at Admirals Cove in Jupiter.

This enchanted evening invites guests of all ages to gather for a heart-warming night of fine dining, festive entertainment and magical moments – all to support families whose children are receiving critical medical care in Palm Beach County.

Guests will be greeted with holiday cocktails, hors d'oeuvres and twinkling décor, followed by a delicious plated dinner. The evening features a live and silent auction, enchanting performances with dancing “sugar plum” fairies and – straight from the North Pole – a special visit from Santa Claus. Children will enjoy interactive activities, photo opportunities and surprises around every corner.

“Sugar Plum Dreams is one of my favorite nights of the year,” says Stoops. “Seeing the joy on children’s faces as they meet Santa, twirl with the fairies and enjoy the evening with their families is truly magical. We’re so excited to welcome our community for another unforgettable celebration that helps bring comfort and care to Quantum House families.”

For nearly 25 years, Quantum House, in West Palm Beach, has been the area’s only pediatric healthcare hospitality home, offering a caring and supportive
